

Open Source Project description

Magento is a leading platform for open e-commerce innovation. More than a 1,000 Magento stores come online every day, these merchants depend heavily on the ecosystem of third-party developers, to build Magento implementations, customizations, and extensions. It is a part of Adobe Experience cloud, which brings together all the marketing technology to a single place. Thus providing a seamless experience by integrating digital and physical shopping experiences.

It has upto 100000+ merchants worldwide. It is ideal for fast growing small business as it is customizable and agile. With affordable Cloud hosting reducing the cost of total ownership by eliminating the maintenance and monitoring costs. Magento accepts contributions in the form of new features, changes to the existing features, tests, documentation, bug fixes or optimizations. Magento values the contributions of the security research community, they strongly encourage developers to report all security issues privately via their bug bounty program to minimize risk to Magento merchants.

It has close to 1400 contributors. Nearly 7500 customers have migrated to Magento from Open Cart and Virtuemart last year. Its top users include Liverpool FC, Pepe jeans, Land Rover, Harvey Nichols, Ford, Bulgari and many others.

The major languages used in Magento include PHP(82 %), HTML(9%) and Javascript (5.6%).

Magento maintains a clear documentation providing a developer every detail that he needs to build and manage a customized Magento store.

The documentation for Magento can be found at <https://devdocs.magento.com/>, it includes documents related to setup, backend development, frontend development, Magento API and its community.
